By NORMAN CARDON

Of Rules and Critics...

There are a great many people who feel that the rules governing Canadian Intercollegiate football require a good going-over. Among these critics are armchair quarterbacks like Oswald Q. Glutzendorf who would install unlimited interference, abolish the use of siffified shoulder-pads and helmets, and substitute a 14 pound shot put for the piggskin. But equally among those who desire a change are men who should know what they want and why they want it. I mean the coaches. This week one of the local papers carried three startling stories. The first one stated, "BILL STORIN WANTS MORE INTER-FERENCE." The second one warmed up with, "COLLEGE COACHES CLAMOR FOR GRID RULE REFORMS." Then Warren Stevens came out and spoiled everything.

Stevens the Spoiler...

Both Doug Kerr and Bill Storin believe that a ten yard interference rule, if instituted, would open up the Canadian game considerably. Stevens believes that this would only lead to a greater number of injuries so long as the backfield is allowed to remain in motion before the ball is snapped. However, the Western teams play under rules such as these, and thus far battles have been non-existent. I hope that Stevens is wrong, and I hope that the interference zone will be increased. Winter interference has been adopted around interscholastic circles with more than satisfactory results.

Grandpa Looks Back...

On the 15th of this month, McGill's hockeyists play a team composed of Graduates of the Alma Mater. Dr. Bobby Bell is aggregating the squad, and it will contain names that should make any coach's mouth water. Among those that have been asked to participate are such famous Redmen as Kenny Farmer, Jack McGill, Neils Crutchfield, whose picture would adorn the Daily every second or third day under the caption "Big Crutch", partly because he was just about the only cut the Daily had, but mostly because he made a habit of starting every time he took the ice. These were the lads who could get 14,000 excited fans to fill the Forum at a McGill-Harvard game.

Continued...

Then there are others of more recent vintage... Dr. Gordie Crutchfield, or "Little Crutch" as he was called to distinguish him from his big brother, Dr. Crosby, "Bing." Holly McHugh, and going back a year or two, shift little Paul Piccock, who would split a defence and then turn around and go back and do it again before scoring just to prove that it can be done. And then Russ McConnell, who confounded the Harvard Crimson with seven goals and three assists in one game, and who is just about the finest McGill has ever produced. There are other all-time "greats" that might be added to that impressive list... Hugh Farquharson, "Sad-faced" Hugh, now coaching the Redmen, and Dr. Maurice Powers in his peaked cap and sloppy, bulging pads, falling ungracefully over everything thrown his way with amazing success. But this is only a dream. Some of those asked will be unable to attend. And yet, without them, it should (Continued on Page Four).

CURRICULUM GROUP TO MEET TODAY

Committee to Discuss Current Campus Topics

Under the sponsorship of the Arts Undergraduate Society, the Women's Union, and the McGill committee of the Canadian Student Assembly, the Arts and Science curriculum committee will meet in the committee room in Strathcona Hall at 1:00 p.m. today. The purpose of the committee is to enquire into student opinion with a view to possible changes. The meeting will endeavour to complete the outline of this year's program.

It is the opinion of the committee, that first year courses should be, on the whole, broader and more general in the various fields of study than they are at the present time. Furthermore they think that entrance requirements should consist of general knowledge, and an ability test, instead of the common idea today of involving examinations requiring direct and special preparation.

WOMEN'S UNION HOLDS SUPPER

"Besides living up to our obligations to college and to our city, we have to face the destiny of Canada." With these words Mrs. Grant, the Warden of R. V. C., ended her speech to the women students. In the capacity of Vice-President of the Red Cross Society at McGill, Mrs. Grant expressed the hope that all women would attend the first general meeting of the Red Cross on Monday, when Mrs. Lindsay, the president, will discuss the fundamental principles of the Society. Mrs. Grant intimated that she would would not be here next year, and that a new warden would take up her residence in R. V. C. next fall.

C.S.A. Delegate Welcomed in Ontario—Victim of Hawkins

By J. W.

"If we want national unity we must feel at home in any part of the country" was the main idea stressed by Francois Daniel Johnson, C.S.A. French Canadian representative, who has just returned from a trip through Ontario, where he visited five universities and spoke twenty times in four days. Johnson was chosen by the C.S.A. to promote in Ontario a better understanding of the French Canadians and their point of view. He was most enthusiastic about the reception he received, for, though his audiences varied in number from twenty to two hundred, all were sympathetic and interested in French Canadian problems. "I was a victim of Sadie Hawkins," admitted Johnson. But although he enjoyed himself on the date, such goings-on did not coincide with the chivalric sentiments of the U. of M. student. "I thought I should be paying the bills," he said, "it made me feel cheap."

At McMaster the whole student body turned out to hear Johnson. In Toronto he found a very active Cercle Francaise, while a great many Western students had attended the summer school at Trois Pictoues and so had gained some insight into the French Canadian atmosphere. (Continued on Page Four).

Anyone interested in scenery construction was asked to come up to the Union attic, which is situated one floor up from the ballroom, any afternoon from five o'clock on. ## MCGILL TEAM ENDS FOUR-DAY DEBATING TOUR

NO DECISION

Win Two of Three Decision Debates in Intercollegiate Series

London, Ont., November 30.—(C.U.P.)—In a debate with the travelling McGill debating team held in the Arts College of the University of Western Ontario tonight, the Western team maintained the affirmative of the resolution, That the United States should enter the War on the side of the Allies.

One hundred Western students attended the one-hour verbal fray; this is the largest group ever to have been present at an intercollegiate debate here.

Tonight's was the fourth and final debate in which Lloyd Henderson and Alex Stalker, members of the McGill Debating Union, have participated this week. At Queen's and Toronto, they were successful in gaining the decision; last night's debate they lost to McMaster, while no decision was given here at Western.

CANADA'S POSITION TO BE DISCUSSED

Pre-Conference Preparations Progress At McGill

Canadian war problems will be discussed today when the commission, "Canada in World Affairs," meets in Strathcona Hall at 1:00 p.m. This is one of the commissions organized by the McGill Branch of the Canadian Student Assembly for pre-conference study. Possible foundations for a lasting peace will be presented, and analysed along with various domestic questions that may arise.

McGill will be allowed to send 30 delegates to the National Conference of Canadian University students, being held at St. Anne de Bellevue, December 27-31. A planning committee representing campus organizations and clubs, will select the McGill delegates.

In order that McGill students may be properly prepared for the discussion groups at the conference, a program of study and discussion of the main themes of the Conference is being planned. The second function of the National Conference Planning Committee at McGill will be to organize the cooperation of campus clubs in this study program. Discussion at the conference will centre around the following points: "National Unity"—causes for tension between East and West, regional economic problems—cultural differences and general effects of war on national and Canadian Unity, and relation of student to these problems.

"Canada in world affairs"—War aims and basis for peace.

"Improving University Education"—Curriculum, student-staff relationship—campus life, social life, representative government on campus, university education as preparation for practical life, student press, dramatics, etc.

"Extending University Education"—Making education more democratic by means of scholarships and student aid, reducing costs of education through co-operatives for dormitories, books, etc.

Study outlines of the topics under discussion have been compiled and may be obtained at Strathcona Hall for 10 cents.

The student group is open to all who are interested in taking part in the discussion of the many acute problems arising out of Canada's participation in the present war.

Tuberculosis

The Kiwanian Seal Campaign opens today to continue through Christmas in an effort to raise $12,000 for division between the Royal Edward Institute and L'Institut Bruchesi in their battle against tuberculosis. Tuberculosis remains one of the major causes of disease mortality in the world, though organized drives against it are having a definite effect. Quebec comes behind all the other provinces in the crusade against the white plague, with an average of 2,700 dying of the disease each year.

The Provincial Committee for the Prevention of Tuberculosis carries on a campaign of propaganda on the importance of protecting the home from this dread disease throughout the municipalities of the province, examination of children, inducement of people to consult their doctors and undergo a thorough medical examination, and the establishment of more beds for patients.

It is impossible to give too great praise to the efforts of the Kiwanis Club and other groups who direct their attention to the prevention and cure of Tuberculosis. Caught in its early stages, cure is practically a certainty; in its advanced stages, the mortality rate is extraordinarily high.

Generally a product of undernourishment and lack of proper bodily care, tuberculosis is prevalent among the poorer classes. The tuberculin test only tells whether a person has the germs in his body. It gives no information about what the germs are doing there. It does not tell whether that person has the disease, or whether he is a spreader.

The modern investigation, the X-ray film of the chest will show the existence of the disease long before it causes symptoms. Thus the importance of prevention which depends to a great extent upon proper examination by X-ray particularly of school children. Prevention, cure, money is required for both. We give our full support to the annual Kiwanian Seal Campaign.

"Paid in Full"

This remarkable answer was received recently by an American firm from one of its Canadian customers, whose bill had been long overdue. "It was so good," said the recipient, "that we marked the bill 'paid in full'. Smiles like these come rarely in business today."

"Dear Sir:—

"In reply to your recent and more recent requests to send you a cheque for my bill, I wish to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to take your request seriously.

"My present financial condition is due to the effect of Dominion laws, Provincial laws, Municipal laws, county laws, corporation laws, traffic laws, liquor laws, by-laws, mother-in-laws, and outlaws, all of which have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public.

"Through these laws, I am compelled to pay a business tax, gas tax, income tax, water tax, excise tax, school tax, auto tax, hydro tax, and syn-tax.

"In addition to these irritating taxes, I am forced by a strong arm of the law to get a permit for this thing and a permit for that thing. I am required to get a business license, a city license, a dog license, a motor license, a radio license, a liquor license, not to mention a marriage license.

"I am also requested and required to contribute to every society and organization which the inventive genius of a man is capable of bringing into life, to the Society of the Pink Hammer, to the Women's relief, the Near East relief, the unemployment relief, the gold diggers home, and every charitable institution in the City; the Black Cross, the White Cross, the Green Cross, the Purple Cross, the Flaming Cross and the doublecross.

"For my own safety, I am required to carry life insurance, liability insurance, burglary insurance, accident insurance, rain insurance, hail insurance and business insurance.

"The Government has now so governed my business that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, introspected, suspected, disrespected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commended and compelled until all I know is that I am supposed to provide inexhaustible means and supply of money for every known desire and hope of the human race; to beg, to borrow or to steal money to give away, and, if I refuse to donate to each and all, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed until I am nearly ruined.

"I can foretell honestly, Sir, that, failing a miracle you won't be paid just now, and the reason I am holding to life is simply to see what is next on the list."

In Amongst the News

We are at a loss. We don't know what to say. We don't know how to say it. We are tempted beyond control and we shall submit, submit to what may become the Waterloo of our column, the death of our cherished brain-child. Finland and Russia are at war! We felt it our sacred duty to mention the subject. For, how could respectable columnists ignore so choice a morsel? We couldn't and perforce we didn't. Now, as responsible columnists desirous of following the straight and narrow path, we should immediately begin to speculate upon the "ultimate results of this conflagration, upon its effects on the Allies' peace terms, on future generations, and its influence upon the final judgment at Doomsday." Worthy readers, we bow our heads in shame, we cover our blushing faces and admit—we are not true geniuses, we simply haven't the average columnist's gift in seeing the invisible. By the time this column reaches you their will be more authentic news on this subject. You can imagine how mortified we must feel, our reputation irrevocably lost, when you and not we will excitedly fore-tell future events. And all because we trying to adhere to honesty and not to showmanship. . . .

Professor Adair's speech, the use and abuse of democracy . . . For days we have been watching the playful word-war, counting the rounds and wondering who will put in the last word. We have decided that this is no ordinary battle that begins and ends, but one that continues ad infinitum. The Adair Dispute has already cost us twenty-five cents, for we bet that the whole matter would be dropped into the depths of oblivion at the end of one week. To our distress it survived and now, minus the money but still arduous gamblers we bet fifty cents that the discussion will close before December 1st.

Today being the deadline, we implore you not to send any more letters to the editor about this dispute. In the name of pity you who could not realize that opinions will remain unaltered, you who have thrust malicious barbs, to sympathize with humble mortals who are on the verge of losing fifty cents because of your inestimable insistence.

Premier Daladier asked for the extension of his power, and for further decree rule. We realize the necessity of granting the Premier's plea, for in time of war centralization of power is necessary in order to insure organized and uniform methods throughout the country. Just as a runner musters all his strength for the final race, so must a nation insist upon complete coordination in wartime. A country at war is perforce a militarized state and at such a time the Premier's plea acquires significance and justification.

Right in amongst the news can be found little items, hardly noticeable to the casual observer, which nevertheless beckon and wink at us, vamping our reason and subtly insinuating themselves into the column. We read the other day that henceforth Pepsi-Cola will be the only drink authorized to sell at the Madison Square Garden. Not that we have any personal objection to the esteemed beverage, nor do we feel any particular revulsion to it, nevertheless, we object to this arrangement. We want to warn the authorities that college students will not give up their cokes! They will sneak their drinks into the garden, slip them stealthily behind their seats and sip them during intermission. We have several friends among the college coke-fiends and it is for their sake that we admonish the management.

After reading that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is still hoping to ascend the German throne once more, we flipped a coin—heads he will succeed, tails, Hitler will remain. Wonders of wonders, the coin stood on end! Which fact amply illustrates that even a Canadian nickle realized the need for a new democratic regime in Germany. . . .

RADIO FLASHES

"Die Meistersinger". . . .

As stated last week, the Metropolitan Opera broadcasting season opens this coming Saturday with a performance of Richard Wagner's "Die Meistersinger", or, to give it its full title, "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg". The story upon which this opera is based is built around an ancient German custom—the contest of the mastersingers on St. John's festival. Eva, the daughter of Pogner, is to marry the winner of the proposed contest. Walther, a nobleman from Franconia who is new to Nuremberg, falls in love with Eva and is determined to enter the contest in order to vie with the others for her hand. His knowledge of music and poetry (at least of the type customarily presented in the mastersingers' contests) is lacking. Moreover, he has to face the determined rivalry of the clerk Beckmesser, who is himself bent upon marrying Eva. The attempt to instruct Walther in the required arts and the various schemes constitute the development of the work. The cast includes:

Hans Sachs . . . . . Friedrich Schorr
Eva . . . . . Irene Jessner
Walther von Stolzing . . . Charles Kullman
Beckmesser . . . . . Walter Olitzki
Pogner . . . . . Emanuel List
David . . . . . Karl Laufkoetter
Magdalene . . . . . Karin Branzell
The conductor will be Erich Leinsdorf.

Beethoven Festival Ends. . . .

The six concerts of the NBC Symphony Orchestra under Toscanini, which comprised the Beethoven Festival come to a close Saturday night with a performance of the Ninth Symphony. Toscanini will be assisted by such soloists as Jarmila Novotna, Kerstin Thorborg, Jan Peerce, and Nicolo Moscona. The famed Westminster choir will provide the vocal background for the symphony. Also scheduled for the program is the Choral Fantasy for Piano, Chorus, and Orchestra. The pianist will be Ania Dorfman and the Westminster group will furnish the choral portion.

Toscanini will reappear with the NBC orchestra March 16. In the interim he will be replaced on the Saturday night broadcasts by three eminent conductors each of whom will direct the orchestra for several weeks. They are Desire Defauw, Bernardino Molinari, and Bruno Walter.

Philharmonic Program. . . .

The New York Philharmonic Symphony gives the second concert of its current tour Sunday afternoon. The program:

Overture to "Der Freischütz" . . . . . Weber
Symphony No. 5, in E minor . . . Tchaikovsky
Symphonic Poem, "The Fountains of Rome" . . . . . Respighi

Here and There. . . .

"So You Think You Know Music" will this Sunday feature as one of its guests Eldon G. Joubert, who throughout the twenty-five years he has been a piano tuner for Steinway and Sons has accompanied Paderewski as his personal tuner . . . The seventh in the "Pursuit of Happiness" series of broadcasts takes place Sunday at 4.30 (approx.) . . . Orson Welles appears with Sigrid Gurie, the Scandinavian discovery from Brooklyn, in James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" . . . An article in the New York Times Magazine Section last Sunday described the origin of Joe Miller's joke-book and gave several examples of the original jokes credited to him. The article said in effect that the gags of our radio comedians are really only polished versions of the quips of the much-abused Joe. The trouble is they're so much funnier in the original. . . .

Poets and Poems

One of the most brilliant of modern novelists, Thomas Hardy also wrote memorable poetry. Born in Dorset, he was educated at Dorchester and then at King's College, London. Strangely enough, he studied to be an architect, but soon turned to literature. In this field he became famous as the author of The Return of the Native, Jude the Obscure and Tess of the D'Urbervilles. Hardy's poems are unimpeachable and often harsh; they seem to brood over the melancholy and grim relentlessness of life. However, his shorter lyrics are often appealing and gentle. The poem quoted expresses perfectly a thought which seems peculiarly applicable at this time.

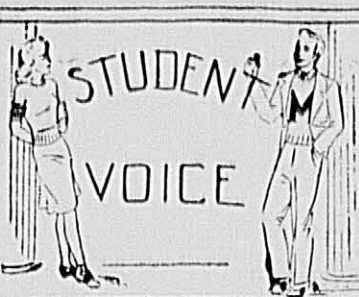

In Time of "The Breaking of Nations."

Only thin smoke without flame
In a slow, silent walk,
With an old horse that stumbles and nods
Half asleep as they stalk

Only thin smoke without flame
From the heaps of couch-grass;
Yet this will go onward the same
Though Dynasties pass.

Yonder a maid and her wight
Come whispering by;
War's annals will cloud into night
Ere their story die.

COLLEGE COLLOQUIALISMS ARE MYSTERY

Campus colloquialisms, or in other words, slang, apparently are part of a college education. They are words that we pick up during our various journeys, hither and yon. How they start seems to be quite a mystery. However, it is suspected that they are precious brain-children of a certain type of intellectuals who are either trying to appear modern or are just too lazy to go into detail. At least a third of college vocabulary is slang. This will no doubt be quite a revelation to English departments. They naturally abhor the murdering of the "King's English."

These colloquialisms vary directly as the fickle public. For instance, the expression, mugging, so popular a number of years ago, has been substituted at intervals by beeking, sparking and pitching-woo.

Words used in this category are quite different at the various universities. At Queen's fusing is used for making love. In the States, one hears mousing and tossing a tomato. Some American college expressions never reach the Canadian colleges. It is no doubt a great blessing in many cases. The word turkey has a very choice meaning at Williams and Dartmouth. It seems that when your date starts discussing cold turkey, he thinks you're not too wonderful. Of course you can be sure no Varsity man would be so crude—or could you? It is a fact that some men around here say good-bye please, if they want to ship a girl or someone who is too smart for them.

The women on the campus have same rare expressions to describe the men they encounter. Drip, heads the list of these, followed by drizzle-puss, droopy-drawers, dimwit, pickle-puss and screw-ball.

To express disgust, some members of the fair sex say that feeble word—lufft. Apparently they are too timid to say anything stronger.

Two phrases were heard the other day which were worthy of note. These are whizzie-breaches and great Caesar's suspenders. They register alarm, but no one seems able to connect them with any meaning.

Our friends at Wycliffe say that they are going gonking, if they mean taking a girl to park by the lake—or somewhere. A wait is a girl who has been stood up. A Joe is a swell fellow.

At a dance you may meet a bag—a girl with a sense of humor—whom you ask to lend her frame for the next struggle, but may turn out to be a frail—an insipid girl—and altogether have a rum slack—a punk evening. Then you give her the go-by and take a gander around to find an O. K. Judy.

These, of course, are far from all the colloquialisms that could be listed, but represent those which were encountered in a half-day of research into the matter. If you are really anxious to be a modern, and swank around this campus, it has been suggested that some smarty-pants—a la Assumption College—compose a "Slang Dictionary for the College Student"—Gateway.

Her: "I think dancing makes a girl's feet too big, don't you?"

Him: "Yeah."

Pause.

Her: "I think swimming gives a girl awfully big shoulders, don't you?"

Him: "Yeah."

Pause.

Him: "You must ride quite a lot too."

The weather man hasn't been very encouraging lately but we still have hopes that Old Man Winter will arrive sometime before Dec. 11 when the First R. V. C. ski week-end is scheduled to take place. This year the floor of the house has been painted a bright orange and prophesies a gay season with sing songs around an open fire place, and ski meets for both the expert and the amateur. Some details about the house might be in order here. It accommodates 11 girls, and all women students attending the university who have paid the annual M. W. S. A. A. fee and partials who have paid their $2.50 to Nancy Nicol Treasurer of the Women's Athletic Association are entitled to use this house. R. V. C. shares the house with Montreal High girls and we have it on alternate week ends including New Years, Mid-term week, in January and the long week-end in February. The site is at the Windmill on the highway one mile past St. Adele en bas. There are hills for both the beginner and the expert close at hand. Rumour has it that plans are under way for mixed daily events up north, such as cross-country hikes—this may be only a rumour. Anyone who wishes to know anything further about this sport centre in the great north is asked to get in touch with Sylvia Grove, Ski House Manager. Don't forget to come out to the Ski meeting Tuesday at 8:30. You're invited.

Wednesday night saw another group of enthusiastic feathered battlers gathered in R. V. C. for one of their weekly gatherings. ## Annual Polo Match And Supper Tonight

The McGill Grads Annual water polo game and dinner will be held tonight. The game will start at 5:30 P.M. and will be held in the Union Grill Room immediately after the game. This annual function takes place each year before the Intercollegiate playoffs and was started six years ago when the McGill water babies won the crown. Since then six suppers have been held and as many championships have been won. This year in order to keep the record intact the Grads and all the members of the Red water polo teams are cordially invited to attend.

Coach Wayland has requested that Juniors and Seniors attend the game and supper. This is the first time that Juniors will have been present at this affair, but it is hoped that a precedence will be established that will be carried on. Substitution will be allowed throughout the game and all those turning out will be given an opportunity to play. Members are asked to appear on time and if unable to play in the game due to the C.O.T.C. Parade are still requested to be present at the supper afterwards.

MEET U. OF V. IN FIRST TRIP BELOW BORDER

Catamounts Hold Victory Over McGill Hoopsters

BATTLE TOMORROW

Drysdale, Holdredge and Kalfas Bolster Last Year's Complete Team

The McGill Senior Basketball Team will raise the curtain on their pre-season exhibition games when they travel south across the border to tackle Coach Sabo's University of Vermont quintette. The Catamounts have turned out some very fine teams in the past few years and in last year's encounter with the Redmen they were successful by the score of 46-24. The Green Team is blessed with an abundance of material this winter and may be headed for a campaign even finer than those of the past three years when they turned in ten victories a season.

Last year's complete senior squad which ended up in first position with Toronto and Western will be on hand to open the season for the Catamounts. Kingston and Sandburg will start on the defence while the brunt of the attack will be carried by Wykes, Purdie and Giannasio. Newcomers to the squad are Kalfas, Holdredge and Drysdale while the remainder of the team will consist of Mislup and Keyes.

Team Hitting Stride

The McGill Team won its opening game in the city league by beating the Y.M.C.A. The game was fast and the passing was good but the team showed lack of polish in their shooting. Coach Van Wagner concentrated on the basket sinking and all the members of the squad are expected to hit their stride in tomorrow's game.

This annual schedule, with the American teams always, proves a great help to the Redmen especially in the Intercollegiate League. This year the McGill team will compete against Polytechnic Institute, John Marshall, Albany Teachers College, Plattsburg State Normal, Union and Manhattan. After such a warm-up Western and Toronto better look to their laurels because the Redmen will have a hard team to beat.

Alpin Drysdale has been promoted from the Intermediates to replace DeWitt who has been forced to discontinue playing due to pressure of his studies, and should perform capably on the forward line.

Following is the line-up of the members of the team who are expected to make the trip: Kingston, Sandburg, Wykes, Purdie, Giannasio, Kalfas, Drysdale, Holdredge, Mislup and Keyes.

ski school

By Swinton

Last time we told you how to buy skis and poles, and it was said that they are cheaper than horses. And nobody can deny that. But they seem to be still quite expensive, and unfortunately we can't deny that either. Therefore, I would like to discuss the problem of prices.

Skiing is a sport which demands that its execution be done on or with instruments. Equipment has always an association with precision, safety and utility. These latter words again have an association with stability and consistency. All of these associations should be applied to the classification of your skiing outfit.

In advertisements every single one of these qualities mentioned above is used as an excuse for the high prices of the articles being promoted. And here we are where this delicate situation is to be dealt with.

The strains which your poor skis have to suffer during some seasons are so enormous that they must be trained carefully and long to be able to stand them. The wood must be straight, the wood must be dry, the wood must be hard, the wood must be elastic, the wood must be impregnated. Every single factor is essential. By missing one the skis lose much value. Then there is another thing too, skis should be used more than one season, the longer you have them the bigger the joy to use them again and again.

Good skis range from 12 dollars to $25. The harness or binding from $5 to $8.50; the poles from $2.50 to $6.00; edges, including mounting, $7.00 (the last item is not advisable for beginners and the unskilled). I think that you should be able to get a fairly good ski outfit (without boots and clothes of course) for $24.00. This outfit would enable you to ski until you are so far advanced that you could take part in competitions for which you would need skis with edges. The first years (usually two or three) should be used only as the training and touring. If you turn up to a race you should start with (Continued on Page Four)

Skiers Hold Meeting in Union Ballroom Tuesday

First Gathering Features Instruction Movies, Dance

McGill's bigger and better ski club will hold its first meeting of the season in the Union Ballroom on Tuesday evening at 7:30. A secret conclave will meet during the lunch hour today to discuss final arrangements but the following details are forthcoming. Business and executive proceedings of one form or other should be finished with in an hour's time. Movies of some of the more outstanding Tyrolean skiers and a lively sequence of ski comics will then be shown. Finally the meeting will adjourn to the Grillroom for dancing.

All co-eds, even the few not interested in skiing, are asked to turn up and add to the festivities. The Grill room has been reserved until midnight and club officials are confident of a big turnout. A serviceable nickelodeon will provide the necessary music.

Weekly Training School.

A feature of the coming season which should pep up the performance of local hickory-riders is the Ski Training School. Officials announce that it will be held every Tuesday afternoon from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m., starting November 28th. These workouts, which will be under the direction of George Swinton are intended primarily for the benefit of newcomers, but they will do the old hands a heap of good. It is expected the workouts will bring skiers to mid-season condition at the beginning of the year.

Once a week the skiers will be shown ski movies of the World Championships of the F.I.S. for the past three years and also of the Austrian and Swiss Championships. Slow motion pictures of Hannes Schneider who was instructing here

Alec McCleod. In the team class which meets every Wednesday afternoon, a ladder has been arranged, to foster some keen competition, and anyone who is anxious to become a member of this group may do so by merely challenging and defeating either one of the two players at the bottom of the ladder. This class provides many advantages, for those of team calibre. Regular coaching has already started, with a different point of the game being discussed and practised at every get together. After Christmas, to get the team in shape for the tilts at Western, a professional coach will take over the training honours. A doubles team is still being sought, and this alone should be enough encouragement to get the coeds to challenge the players at the bottom of the ladder.

Caging of late has been going on at a great rate, with Third Year and First Year taking most of the tilts in the Interclass series and with the Grads starting off a brilliant season by swamping the R.V.C. team. With Ruth Schofield, Marg Hart, Ruby Smith and Molly Cooke playing for the graduates they have a pretty good chance of being successful when they meet McGill on Tuesday Dec. 5, in M.H.S. at 5. This afternoon the fourth in the series of Interclass games takes place in R.V.C. at 5 p.m., when Third Year plays First Year, and Second Year meets the Senior team. Judging from all the games that the Freshettes and Juniors have been winning it is highly probable that it will prove a tilt full of keen competition. The following girls will represent their classes: Third Yr: Peggy Tyndale, Poy Power, Nancy Nicol, Eva Arendt, Margery Gaunt, Maryellen Rossiter, Nancy Drury, Bea Martin; First Yr: Hilda Richmond, Estelle Hargreaves, Eileen Johnston, Margery Howard, Jane Elliott, Peggy Orr, G. Nassif, J. Anderson; Second Yr: Margaret Burke, Soya Ekin, Elspeth Russell, Betty Brodie, Mary Nutter, Barbara Johnson, Arlene Scott, Pat Neilson, Joan Edwards, Jean Norris, Margery Baty, and Kalliope Anastas; Fourth Yr: Gladys Bean, Florence Flynn, Dinkie Ramsay, Isabelle Galarneau, Frances Maxwell, Alison Cole, Mary Stewart, Kay Gurd, Mary Gurd, Lila Redmond.

Gathering together yesterday afternoon from 2-4 p.m. the R.V.C. Bow Benders had a very interesting session with many enthusiasts present. Everyone is looking forward to their first competition with Macdonald which will be held tomorrow in R.V.C. starting at 2:30 sharp. Six girls are coming in to compete against the R.V.C.-ites and it is hoped that in the near future there will be a return match. McGill has been practising quite a bit since the Intercollegiate Telegraphic meet and will probably give the Mac Sextette some keen competition.

a fair chance. It is not essential to win your first race, but it is necessary to get experience. Don't start with the racing too early, it will spare you many disappointments—and spills. Therefore it is absolutely unnecessary, perhaps even unwise to buy skis with edges at the beginning of your skiing career.

Don't be annoyed if I seem to be pedantic, or didactic, but it isn't as bad as it looks. Skiing is not like politics where everybody might be right or might be wrong. Skiing is a sport which should be trained for conscientiously, and the knowledge of it is based upon the experiences, and broken legs of our predecessors.

ONTARIO WELCOMED C.S.A. DELEGATE

The program consisted of general meetings at which Johnson spoke, followed by discussion and question periods. In his addresses the speaker talked informally, telling exactly what the French Canadians thought. "National unity," he insisted, "must not be only a political question, but should be based on something more solid—on respect and understanding. If the people of Ontario could read our French Canadian papers they might better understand our point of view." In order to cope with the questions raised by his audience after the main address, Johnson acquainted himself, before leaving Montreal with details of certain controversial points. He found that those most frequently brought up were the Padlock Law and the Elections.

Johnson considers the C.S.A. as one of the best ways of promoting national unity for students. He realizes that this will take time, but he believes that a mutual understanding can eventually be brought about between French and English Canadians.

In his talks he stressed the historical background of French Canada and its bearing on today's affairs.

WEEKEND PROGRAM LAUNCHED BY M.R.A.

Objective Is One Hundred Million Listening In to Radio Programs

Major-General, the Earl of Athlone, who is the uncle of H. M. the King, and formerly was Governor-General of South Africa, is inaugurating for the British Empire a series of broadcasts on Moral Re-armament this week-end, by speaking from London on the Empire short wave at 5:45 p.m. today.

The objective of this week-end is one hundred million listening, who could become the remakers of the world. Moral Re-armament is a race with time to remake men and nations. An estimated 25,000 listening parties will take place in England alone, in homes and halls and college dorms.

Lord Athlone, in a foreword to a booklet on Moral Re-armament, which has just been published in England with an initial issue of two million copies, writes: "This country has never failed to meet recurring crisis with courage. . . . But the spiritual crisis remains and calls for action. Nation and Empire must stand or fall by our response to that call. The choice then is Moral Re-armament or national decay."

Sensor Bankhead, Speaker of the House of Representatives, is opening the week-end for the United States.

Students can listen in to station CFCF on Saturday at 8 p.m. to the program "M.R.A. in Canadian Life," and on Sunday at 4 p.m. to Dr. F. N. D. Buchman, founder of M.R.A.

Each year it has become the custom of the R.V.C. Historical Club to invite its counterpart to a joint meeting. The next meeting will, therefore, be a joint one with the R.V.C. Historical Club, and will be held at R.V.C.

"The Executive hope," says William Dods, Secretary of the Club, "that the services of a French-Canadian speaker will be obtained in the near future, so as to get the French-Canadian point of view."

Student From England Reveals Impressions of American Life
Pittsburgh, Pa. — If there's one question that has been asked a thousand times of smiling, five-foot-two, and blue-eyed Jean Robina Tipson, it's "How does New York compare with London?" To which Miss Tipson has been found to answer a thousand times in her laughing English accent: "Why, I've never been to London!"

Miss Tipson, a freshman in the College arrived here from Coventry, England, six months ago to visit her brother, who is a research chemist on the staff at Mellon Institute. But, as gangs began to roll to the front and back-out chilled Londoners, her visit became one of indefinite stay. Last September she registered at the University, and she promises to remain until things "cool off" quite a bit over there.

Although Miss Tipson attends but two University classes—orientation and freshman English, she enjoys spending her "free hours" in the Commons Room chatting with her friends and discussing English and American culture.

Yes, America appeals to the freshman woman from Coventry, especially moving pictures and dances, which she likes to attend. Most of all, Miss Tipson is determined to learn the "Shag" before she returns to her homeland.

—PITT NEWS.

Mrs. Smith was complaining vehemently to her husband, "I'm just about tired of hearing you talk about your car, your home, your garden and your son. Can't you ever learn to say 'our'?" Now what are you looking for in the closet?" "Our trousers" came the reply.

It has been announced, that in an effort to increase its clientele, the Pit has instituted a new idea. Beginning next Monday, each student who purchases a full course meal, will receive a ticket with a number on it; the following day free dinners will be given to the holders of certain lucky tickets.
